Look2Talk is a stunning new guide for parents and professionals who need to develop and support a communication book for children who speak by using their eyes alone.

Eye-pointing to pictures, symbols or text can be a fast and effective way to communicate. Look2Talk is a step-by-step system that brings in symbols and pictures at a speed that suits both the child and the responder. It emphasises the importance of learning together in fun, relaxed activities where the child can take control. Accompanied by a DVD that contains tutorials and real-life example clips, the guide covers all of the essential questions that need to be answered, such as what vocabulary to put in the book, how many pictures or symbols to use on a page, and how to develop the book over time.

A core vocabulary, based on the development of children's functional language, develops through five stages. This core, ranging from just two symbols at the outset, increases to 24 by the fifth and final stage.

The complete Look2Talk pack contains a 60-page guide book and a sturdy custom-made easel file, which has been designed specifically for eye-pointing communication. The file contains core and example vocabulary pages, which you can use to form the basis of your own communication book.
